Somebody has said, "Tell me what you like, and I will tell you what you are." A man's character is displayed very clearly by his likings, his wants, the demands he makes upon li the heart prayers he offers to his God. For what are we praying or what do we will? Mankind is generally crying, "Giv Me!" Its desire is many time its wealth and power. We have conquered many dominions and arnessed many powers, but to

We can point to the prodigal son, who took his lot and wasted it in living loosely. His life for a time must have seemed wonderful and glamorous. But he grew sick and tired of all this kind of life before it came to an end. One day a vision came to the lad of the home that he had left.
